

A6721 Stone Conservation Workshop, Part I – Syllabus, Fall 2014

Professor: Helen Thomas-Haney

Office: 212 532-7775 x16

Cell: 646-584-6155

E-mail: hthomas-haney@jbconservation.com (or hmt31@columbia.edu)

Class 1: Woodlawn Cemetery

9-1, September 2, 2014

1. Overview of the course including requirements and expectations
2. Review and discussion of the codes of ethics of professional conservation organizations.
3. Overall orientation to Woodlawn Cemetery
4. Selection of monuments for conditions assessment.
5. Discussion of how to conduct a conditions assessment.
6. Begin the conditions assessment.

Class 2: Woodlawn Cemetery

9-1, September 9, 2014

1. Continue conditions assessment

Class 3: Woodlawn Cemetery

9-1, September 16, 2014

1. Complete conditions assessment
2. Site testing

Class 4: Woodlawn Cemetery

9-1, September 23, 2014

1. Each student/team will hand in a draft of their conditions assessment report with proposed treatments.
2. We will review each team's/student's proposed treatments and discuss the pros and cons and how the treatment programs could be implemented.
3. The class will discuss on site treatments and perform test treatments on the monuments.

Class 5: Meeting Place to Be Determined

9-1, September 30, 2014

1. The class will meet in a laboratory to examine more sophisticated tools and techniques used in testing and diagnostics in the conservation field.
2. The class will analyze any sample removed from their monuments.
3. We will discuss the format of the presentation and final report for Woodlawn.

Class 6: Woodlawn Cemetery

9-1, October 7, 2014

1. Each student will implement treatments on their monuments.

Class 7: Woodlawn Cemetery

9-1, October 14, 2014

1. Each student will present their work to the Cemetery Owner.
2. Each student/team will hand in their final report on their monument.

Readings: All readings will be posted to CourseWorks

Grades: attendance and class participation (25%), interim report (25%), final document and presentation (50%)

Class meets at Woodlawn Cemetery (unless otherwise indicated) rain or shine.

Each student is responsible for supplying her/his own digital camera.